CIRCLE OF LOVE

Since 1969, Cartier's LOVE has been less of a bracelet and more of a declaration. Now, with two new chapters, the necklace unfurls like a golden ribbon, gadrooned links punctuated by signature screws, in rose, yellow, or rhodium-plated white gold, and a new sparkle element where diamonds replace the screws. Each piece takes 200 hand-polished components, and the diamond bracelet clips invisibly onto another for endless stacking.

A CENTURY ON THE ROAD

A century ago, Montblanc's pens unfettered their tether to the desk and hit the road. In 1926, the Maison launched its first leather goods—pen pouches for travelling writers—and this year marks 100 years of leather craft, two years after the 2024 centenary of its Meisterstück pen. The star of the anniversary is the Writing Traveler — a portable desk bag — complete with a front pocket for pens, a notebook, a wallet and a watch; each takes about eight hours to assemble by hand.

ANANTARA PUTS THE GRAND TOUR BACK ON THE ROAD

Driving through the Amalfi Coast is on every aesthete's forever bucket-list, but doing it in an Alfa Romeo—from the mid-century Giulietta to the Giulia and Stelvio, with Quadrifoglio versions for the speed-inclined—holds promise. Anantara's new Grand Tour of Europe begins with the Dolce Vita Tour: Rome's Palazzo Naiadi to Convento di Amalfi, via Sperlonga and Ravello, with seaside lunches and vineyard tastings. In 2027, the Grand Tour is expected to include the French Riviera, Dublin to Amsterdam and an Imperial Capitals route.
