

WELLNESS WONDER

3 TULÅH CLINICAL WELLNESS

Tucked into the serene highlands of northern Kerala, Tulåh Clinical Wellness introduces a progressive sanctuary where ancient eastern therapies meet cutting-edge science. The wellness retreat seamlessly integrates traditional systems like Ayurveda, Chinese and Tibetan medicines, yoga, and Vedanta with sophisticated modern diagnostics and regenerative medicine. Conceived by founder Faizal Kottikollon, the 65-suite property draws its deep medical credibility from its clinical sister institution, Meitra Hospital. Entirely powered by net-zero solar energy, the sustainable destination is crowned by a monumental sonorium, believed to be the world's largest sound-healing dome.

KYOTO CALLING

4 IMPERIAL HOTEL, KYOTO

The legendary Imperial Hotel brand broke its 30-year expansion silence earlier this year with a spectacular debut in Kyoto's historic Gion district. Housed within the walls of the Former Yasaka Kaikan—a cultural treasure built in 1936 by architect Tokusaburo Kimura—the new 55-room luxury retreat stands as a masterclass in architectural preservation. By painstakingly salvaging thousands of the building's historic exterior tiles, stone pillars, and window frames, the property connects its guests directly to the legacy of the Gion Kobu Kaburenjo grounds. The interiors thoughtfully weave heritage with luxury, presenting the brand's premiere tatami-floored accommodations alongside a stunning seventh-floor cocktail lounge designed as an architectural homage to Frank Lloyd Wright's iconic Tokyo masterpiece.

A JAIPURI JEWEL

5 THE JOHRI, JAIPUR

While many of Jaipur's heritage hotels seek isolation on the city's quiet fringes, The Johri chooses an immersive approach. Located within a meticulously restored 19th-century haveli, this intimate property sits directly inside the buzzing Johri Bazaar, the Pink City's famous historic gemstone market. Its boutique suites are individually named after precious gems, offering a peaceful, elegant counterpoint to the bustling market outside that creates a sensory contrast that distant estate hotels simply cannot match.
