

CARIBBEAN LUXE

6 ORIENT EXPRESS CORINTHIAN

A name that's stood as the ultimate icon of luxury rail travel for over 140 years, the Orient Express makes its historic debut on the open ocean this year with The Corinthian. Moving away from the traditional canvas, the magnificent vessel—celebrated as the world's largest sailing yacht—has 54 suites and a dedicated 170-member crew, with world-class dining orchestrated by acclaimed chef Yannick Alléno. The ultra-exclusive yacht is propelled by three innovative rigid sails crafted from carbon-reinforced glass panels. The ship's first Caribbean voyage set sail from Lisbon on October 12, on a 14-night transatlantic journey to Barbados.

A MEAL IN THE HILLS

7 NAAR BY CHEF PRATEEK SADHU

Chef Prateek Sadhu re-engineered India's luxury gastronomy map with the inception of NAAR, his revolutionary destination restaurant hidden in the hills of Kasauli. Shifting away from metropolitan hubs, Sadhu uses NAAR as an alpine canvas to stage a deeply personal, avant-garde tasting menu that seamlessly weaves the flavour memories of his childhood Kashmiri kitchen with the hyper-seasonal, forage-forward ingredients of the Himalayas. By introducing uncompromising world-class fine dining to the mountains, he has transformed a quiet weekend retreat into a culinary pilgrimage site. Sadhu's work stands as India's most profound recent proof that visionary craftsmanship can reshape patterns of regional tourism, inspiring a whole new generation of chefs to look inward toward their own roots.
