Tradition Worn Lightly

The 'Timeless Polki' collection by 'Heer by GIVA' blends tradition with a lighter, wearable frame, making the heirloom look an everyday wear, not a once-a-year ritual.

Wrapped in muslin, stored carefully in the back of a steel almirah, an heirloom polki set lives as part of the Indian family, but only makes a special appearance during weddings or Diwali. Although loved deeply, a polki really doesn't have much to do on a regular Tuesday. This quiet gap between reverence and wearability is where 'Heer by Giva' has placed its latest bet. 'Timeless Polki' is a collection of polki-inspired jewellery that takes the regality of an authentic polki set while introducing contemporary flair, with pieces crafted in 14-karat gold and set with lab-grown diamonds.

With a wide range comprising 21 designs, Heer by GIVA offers a variety that ranges from statement necklaces and elegant earrings to bracelets, pendants, and rings. The edit also includes a mangalsutra, promising jewellery for every occasion.

From the Diwali puja to the wedding mandap, Timeless Polki is made for the moments that call for dressing up. Pair the teardrop pendant with a silk saree, let the statement necklace take centre stage at the sangeet, and choose the mangalsutra for the wedding day itself. Light enough to wear well beyond the festivities, each piece turns an heirloom-inspired look into something you'll reach for again. For those seeking something bespoke, Heer by GIVA also offers a separate made-to-order service.
