

MERCEDES V-CLASS

3 ULTRA-LUXURIOUS COMFORT

That luxury is all about space is the premise of the V-class. With the success of the high-end vans, this series has repositioned itself as a private suite—for the chauffeur to essentially transport two people in extreme comfort. If it appeals to the Bollywood clientele that Mercedes enjoys, the success of the V-class is near guaranteed. However, its appeal also lies in its versatility—the MPV comes with a number of permutations and combinations, seating from four people to over eight.

BMW 1300 GS ADVENTURE

4 A POWER DRIVE

The call of the BMW GSA brand just keeps growing—as does its engine size. This beautifully balanced bike now churns out close to 150BHP, far beyond the territory of most cars in the country, and of course, its terra and para lever suspension is the stuff of legends. In its formidable Adventure avatar, the bike is the ultimate machine for long-distance touring.

DEFENDER OCTA

5 TURBO-CHARGED DEFENSE

The Defender is no longer a Land Rover, thanks to the cult following it enjoys and the strong brand identity it developed because of its classic yet modern design, unmistakable road presence, and all-terrain, go-anywhere capability. The Octa takes the Defender to the next level, not only because of the prowess of its turbo-charged V8 engine but also the subtle cosmetic changes that make it a mean machine. With 750Nm of peak torque and 635BHP of max power, the propulsive power of the Octa is in the realm of sports and supercars.
