

HERITAGE RUM

7 VELIER SKELDON 1973 FULL PROOF

The Velier Skeldon 1973 Full Proof is among the most sought-after Demerara rums ever released. Distilled in 1973 and bottled in 2005 after 32 years of tropical aging, just 544 bottles were produced at 60.5% ABV. Renowned for their depth and complexity, Demerara rums embody Guyana's rich distilling heritage. Named after the historic Skeldon Estate, this rare expression represents a lost chapter of Caribbean rum-making history and remains a prized collector's bottle.

8 VERSOS 1891 AMONTILLADO

My dream sherry is Versos 1891 Amontillado by the Spanish winery Bodegas Barbadillo, an exceptionally rare and luxurious sherry from Sanlúcar de Barrameda, originating from a family cask set aside in 1891. Only 100 numbered bottles were released, with an original price of around €10,000 per bottle, making it one of the most exclusive and expensive sherries in the world. With its intense, complex character and layers of dried fruit, nuts, antique wood, and oxidative richness, it represents everything I love about mature sherry.

SHERRY DREAMS

LIQUID OPULENCE

9 GRAND MARNIER QUINTESSENCE

One of the world's most sought after rare liqueurs, Grand Marnier Quintessence is crafted from rare, exceptionally aged Grande Champagne Cognacs, including historic family reserves. Blended with double-distilled wild bitter orange essence, it delivers remarkable depth and complexity. Presented in a handcrafted Baccarat crystal decanter, Quintessence is as captivating to look at as it is to taste.

COLLECTOR'S EDITION

10 TEQUILA LEY .925 DIAMANTE

This tequila is a premium Extra Añejo made from 100% Blue Weber agave. Being aged for up to seven years in French oak barrels gives Tequila Ley .925 Diamante rich notes of vanilla, caramel, and toasted oak. The bottle, designed by Mexican artist Fernando Altamirano, is a masterpiece made with precious metals and thousands of diamonds. Valued at around US$3.5 million, it is much more than a bottle of tequila. ■
