MAKING LEADERS FUTURE-READY

NEW COURSES THAT TAKE IN TECHNOLOGY AND GEOPOLITICS AND THE MEANINGFUL USE OF AI MAKE MDI GURGAON SPECIAL

By SHELLY ANAND

SINCE ITS INCEPTION IN 1972, MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT INSTITUTE (MDI) GURGAON, has repeatedly expanded and oriented its programmes to meet changing industry needs. Today, as technology reshapes businesses, the institute is looking at how future managers learn, think and lead. In MDI, students are made future-ready by academic rigour underpinned by experience-based learning as well as programmes that develop teamwork skills and social intelligence.

MDI introduced a one-year management programme in 1988, now known as PGDM-BM (Post Graduate Diploma in Management Business Management). It was among the first Indian institutes to offer a dual-degree programme (in International Business) with an international partner, allowing students to spend a year in India and another abroad. Its current portfolio includes programmes in business analytics and finance with a focus on the banking and financial services sector. The next step could be an undergraduate programme combining technology and
