

sumptuous layers of sherried truffle, chocolate, vanilla, dried fruits and bitter cocoa.

Its diamond-cut, gold-engraved bottle rests within an exquisite handcrafted wood, metal and leather case, perfected over six months and five prototypes. Individual numbering, authentication credentials, a silver peg measure and crystal stopper complete its splendour.

With just 75 bottles worldwide, priced above $12,500 (₹11 lakh), Expedition commands the reverence once reserved for exalted Scottish malts. Celebrating Amrut's 75-year legacy, it is less a whisky release than an acquisition of history.
