For us, that range is about serving people at different stages of life. And we do that while holding on to the same principles of planning, quality and customer care. Our brand vision has always been to create more than just a building. We want people to feel that we have thought about how they will live there, how their community will take shape and how the development will serve them in the years ahead.

What has enabled a business founded by two brothers to take on development at a much larger scale

Growth requires passion, but it also requires discipline. In the beginning, the two of us were involved in decisions across the business. That gave us a close understanding of what customers expected and what it took to deliver. As we expanded, we had to turn that hands-on approach into strong systems for financial planning, operations and execution. Today Group's projects are all in locations with strong potential and this has consequently also brought Navi Mumbai to the attention of investors beyond India. We are currently developing 15 million sq. ft. across Navi Mumbai and Thane. A portfolio of that scale demands careful choices about locations, project design and the resources needed to complete each development. Bhadresh brings a deep understanding of the market and a clear vision for where Today Group should go. My role has been to help build the financial and operational strength to pursue that vision responsibly. We have grown because we share a commitment to the work behind every promise we make.

More than 4 million sq. ft. of your current portfolio comprises Grade-A commercial development. What is the business case for this expansion, and how could it strengthen Navi Mumbai's appeal to investors?

One thing that our experience has taught us is that a city meets global standards when people can find opportunities to work and build businesses alongside the places where they live. This is why our foray into commercial development matters to us. We have over 4 million sq. ft. of our current development portfolio comprising Grade-A commercial projects across business locations including Airoli, Juinagar, Nerul and Thane. Our projects like Nova Ark in Nerul, Codename 'The Tangent' in Juinagar and Codename Obliq in Airoli reflect this direction. One Arthasya extends our commercial presence to Thane. These developments for us are an opportunity to create contemporary workplaces for companies, professionals and investors. They also allow us to contribute to a more complete urban landscape. As business activity expands across Navi Mumbai, the city will have more reasons for people to live, work and invest here.

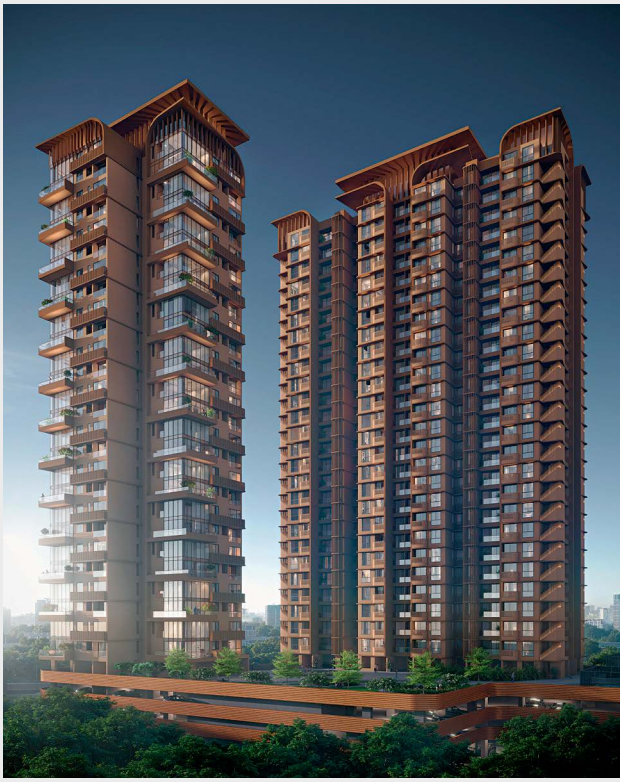

Your residential portfolio spans Affordable, Mid-Market and Luxury developments. How do you decide what to build in each micro-market as buyer expectations change?

Location matters because people are likely to make a life there. A buyer in an established neighbourhood would have different priorities in comparison to a family entering a newer growth corridor. Connectivity, access to daily essentials, the size and layout of homes, besides the character of the surrounding area are factors that influence our planning. Catering to a variety of segments does not mean applying a single formula at different price points. It means understanding what will make each development useful and appealing over time. Across Airoli, Nerul, Juinagar, Kharghar, Upper Kharghar and Panvel, we see distinct markets with distinct possibilities. For instance, the Codename Citadel project is being marketed not merely as another Juinagar micro-market launch, but as a differentiated, landmark product. The specific intention here is to elevate the locality's luxury residential offering with MMR's first duplex tower that is exclusive in many ways.

Our final aim is to match those opportunities with homes that are thoughtfully designed and suited to the expectations of their buyers. That ability to respond to change has been an important part of Today Group's growth and contribution to Navi Mumbai.

Your 20-year campaign is appearing in London and New York. Why was it important to take Today Group's story to a global audience?

This is a campaign that celebrates 20 years of building Navi Mumbai. It marks the journey of Today Group alongside a city whose potential we believed in when much of its story was still being written. Over these two decades, we have delivered homes to over 3,000 families through a number of projects. Our desire is to celebrate that milestone both in Navi Mumbai, where our journey took shape, and in the two international cities of London and New York. And so, Today Group's campaign brings this celebration to prominent locations, including Canary Wharf and Leicester Square in London, and the Nasdaq screen and Times Square in New York. For us, taking the celebration overseas is an expression of pride in what we have built and in the city that has helped us grow. It also gives international audiences an opportunity to see the quality and ambition of development taking shape in Navi Mumbai. Behind the campaign are two decades of work, consistent execution and the trust of our customers. As we celebrate this shared journey, we hope to encourage greater interest in the city and its future. We are taking Today Group's celebration of 20 years of building Navi Mumbai to the world.

Looking ahead, what would make Navi Mumbai more compelling to investors, and where can Today Group make its greatest contribution?

Investors need confidence that a location can support growth over the long term. They look at connectivity, the availability of talent, the strength of residential communities and the quality of commercial space. Navi Mumbai's opportunity lies in bringing those elements together across its established centres and emerging corridors. We are only putting together a project taking advantage of the blend of elements. Today Group will continue delivering developments that respond to those needs and remain relevant over time. Our "Happiness First" philosophy reminds us to think about the experience of the people who will live and work in the spaces we create. Our promise, "Here. Forever.", reflects the enduring relationships we want to build with them. As we enter our next chapter, we will keep growing with Navi Mumbai. We will focus on creating homes and workplaces that serve people well, support the city's progress and give businesses and investors further reason to see its potential.