no choice but to look to increase fares in an effort to offset some of the very significant increase that we've seen in the fuel bill."

IndiGo has twice raised domestic and international fuel surcharges. The airline withdrew wet-leased widebody operations on international routes from October 25 to optimise costs. "We have been very agile in network restructuring and capacity management. We have seen the positive impact of capacity adjustment in our financial performance," he said.

IndiGo forecasts low-single-digit capacity growth for FY27, and expects festive demand to support the current quarter. "We are going into the current (third) quarter which is traditionally strong the festive season, so we'll look at measures that are appropriate, but I continue to be optimistic about the long-term growth opportunities."

IndiGo's September-quarter net loss of ₹1,879 crore—its third consecutive quarterly loss—reflected exceptionally high fuel costs and seasonal softness. Fuel costs rose 67.2% year-on-year to
