in us, even if we were only concerned for ourselves and in the narrowest sense, planetary exploration would still constitute a superb investment.