[6] We could also call it a Kronecker product, since we're talking about matrices. The formal distinction is not important for our purposes.