[7] Strictly speaking, the principle should be called the Principle of Stationary Action. Actual trajectories are stationary points of the action and not always minima. For our purposes, this fine point is not important.