Rahul Gandhi is that person. He has taken the first essential step towards this transformation. He has brought politics back to the streets, mobilizing the elderly and the young, cutting across religions, castes, classes, genders and parties. These people will become the agitators and the freedom fighters of tomorrow. They will form movements and drive forward our politics and Indian democracy. United by our constitutional values, they will save the unity and humanity of this ancient country. For this, like the Dandi Yatra—whether there will be a movement at the national level remains to be seen. On the occasion of Shaheed Diwas (Martyrdom Day), we can move forward only if we resolve to carry forward 'qurbani ka jazba (spirit of sacrifice)'.

It is certain that by putting forth the issue of EVMs and seeking public opinion, Rahul ji has indeed shifted the focus of his Yatra away from the 2024 election campaigns. While young leaders such as Kanhaiya Kumar are actively involved in creating a stir on one side, Rahul ji has taken on the role of engaging in public discussions and public hearings on most issues and not provoking hatred between Opposition parties and within the party, whether the left or the right political spectrum or within various factions, be it concealed or overt. Therefore, not only the opponents of the Yatra, but also the supporters are constantly surrounded by a question: 'Will the Yatra have an impact on the Congress and the BJP votes, and to what extent?'
