led the People's Linguistic Survey of India, which is published in fifty volumes covering seventy languages. Devy has received several literary awards and honours, including the Padma Shri in 2014. Painted Words, his collection of literature on the Adivasi and nomadic communities, was published in 2003.

Professor Mridula Mukherjee retired as a professor of modern Indian history and dean of the School of Social Sciences, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. Professor Mukherjee has been the director of the Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, and a visiting scholar at Duke University in the US and at the Institute of Oriental Culture, University of Tokyo. She is also a trustee of the Samruddha Bharat Foundation. She has been published widely in the areas of agrarian history, peasant movements, social movements and the Indian independence movement. Her publications include India's Struggle for Independence (1999) and India after Independence: 1947–2000 (2000), both co-authored.

Professor Aditya Mukherjee retired as the professor of contemporary Indian history at the Centre for Historical Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi. He is the editor of the SAGE Series in Modern Indian History; a member of the Scientific Community, International Review of Sociology, Rome; the regional editor of the International Journal of Asian Studies, Tokyo; and a member of the editorial committee, Studies in People's History.

Professor Mukulika Banerjee is an associate professor at the department of anthropology and a former director of the South Asia Centre, London School of Economics and Political Science. She has authored Cultivating Democracy: Politics and Citizenship in Agrarian India (2021) and Why India Votes? (2014). She is a regular commentator on BBC World, BBC Radio Analysis and the National Geographic Channel on a variety of events related to South Asia, in a range of South Asian languages, including English, Hindi and Urdu.