Polity2 democracy scores, 79, 80, 83, 84, 118, 119, 121, 135, 163 populism: adaptability of, 32; and anti-elite sentiment, 32–33; authoritarianism and, 73; definition of, 32; empirical studies of, 23, 25–27, 71–72, 78–79, 135; evolution of, 72–73; global governance and, 2–7, 87; ideological flexibility of, 7, 11, 17, 32, 62; and implications for scholars and policymakers, 29–30; international organizations and, 4, 7, 33–34, 35, 71, 74–77, 108; liberal international order and, 31, 201; multilateralism and, 49, 226; rise of, 1, 2, 71; roots of, 72–73; spread of, 4, 5, 9, 72, 73–74; theoretical framework of, 23–25, 27–28
populist leaders: and anti-elite narratives, 3, 56, 76, 142; anti-globalism of, 14; co-optation strategy of, 42–43, 60; countries with, 4, 5; defining characteristics of, 7–8; domestic institutions and, 13, 82, 94; domestic popularity of, 17–18; and engagement with IOs, 19, 21, 54, 57–58, 103, 112, 118, 125–26, 128, 139; information withholding and manipulation by, 14, 42–43, 81–84, 93–94, 96; limits of power of, 60; lobbyist groups and, 56–57; nationalism of, 57; noncompliance tactics of, 41–42; as organizational disruptors, 12–14; priorities of, 56; and resistance to international cooperation, 9; rhetoric of, 45–46; and scientific information, 83; slogans of, 3; social media strategies of, 149–52; and strategies to undermine IOs, 10–11, 13, 29, 57, 77; toxic communication of, 34, 35, 45–46, 84–87. See also appeasement of populists; sidelining of populists populist-style communication: and effect on public engagement, 155–58, 156, 157, 161; examples of, 153–54; and impact on IO support, 158–61, 159, 160; public's response to, 152; regression framework, 161, 162; risks of, 165–66; Twitter-based tests of, 152–55 Portugal, austerity measures against, 116 preemptive appeasement, 207–11, 212–13 preemptive sidelining, 202–7, 203, 211–12 public opinion: in authoritarian regimes, 53, 60; influenced by international organizations, 53–54, 60–61, 128, 129, 147–48

regional financing arrangements, 62, 67 retrenchment strategy, 209–11
Rome Statute, 197, 198
Russia: intelligence gathering by, 44; populist movements in, 72, 73

Schularick, Moritz, 78, 82, 102, 117, 135, 163 scientific agencies, defunding of, 94
Second Bank of the United States, 72 sidelining of populists: downsides of, 110; effectiveness of, 18, 20, 21, 51, 52; examples of, 19, 51; limitations of, 51, 222; methods of, 50–51, 90–91; normative and legitimacy concerns of, 51–52; via information sharing, 109 sidelining of populists' constituents: combination strategies of, 215–16; downsides of, 55–56; dual, 215; methods of, 18, 19–20, 19, 21, 28, 29, 54–56, 63, 124–41; normative concerns of, 55; preemptive, 203, 211–12; secrecy around, 55, 63, 123, 126, 128–30; typology of, 215
Silencing Science Tracker, 105, 106, 107 social media: benefits of engagement with, 151; international organizations on, 26, 143, 146, 147–49, 148, 153, 165, 178, 185, 200, 214; populists on, 149–52; populist-style communication on, 150. See also Twitter/X Stoltenberg, Jens, 59, 148, 151, 178, 179, 180
Stubbs, Thomas, 78, 117
Sweden: and bid to join NATO, 176, 177; and support for Kurdish groups, 176–77
Syriza party, 195–96
systemic shocks, 114