While Tony and Steve argue about the Sokovia Accords in the conference area, Bucky's containment unit is transferred to the lower levels of Taskforce Headquarters. The sterile, metallic hallways and loading bay were meant to emphasize the government building's scale, as well as its power. "The environments that I did for the film were paintings done over the existing location where we'd potentially be shooting," Concept Artist Paul Ozzimo says. "I was asked to add some stainless door elements and some floor graphics to make everything feel more official."
