"I'm really happy with the Redwing design and the integration into the backpack," Nizzi says. "Redwing has enough birdlike qualities to reference the comic and have some personality, but is military enough to not be silly. Cutting-edge military drones have a pretty similar profile to diving falcons, so that was a pretty obvious place to start. We tried to find the right balance to convey the bird idea but still make it appear like plausible technology, and hopefully something iconic people would remember."

MISSILE LAUNCHER DOOR OPEN

"There are some levels of autonomy to the drone," Dan Deleeuw adds. "It can kind of fly on its own. It's not quite its own character yet...but maybe one day."

CLOSED