ZOLA'S LAB

Said Heinrichs, "We chose metallic surfaces and a cold color scheme to describe Schmidt's basic inhumanity, but also to convey the sense of superior science. The Nazis had some very innovative weapons programs in development, which the end of the war in 1945 thankfully brought to an end."