The Hydra Submarine's layout proved popular with filmmakers, as it allowed some propeller action to be seen in close-up shots of the pilot. In pursuit of more advanced Hydra technology, the propellers were replaced with water jets. The canopy was also streamlined in the final design.

Concept art by Paul Castling.