With each classification of Hydra soldier came new challenges for Meinerding and Wen. “With the Flame Trooper, the design challenge was how to integrate the Cube technology with a traditional flamethrower to make something that felt a little new,” Meinerding said. “There were meant to be two triggers in the inner rings of the gun apparatus, and the trooper would rotate his hand to activate either the Cube weapon or the flamethrower.”

Concept art by Charlie Wen.