Seeking to preserve the essence of Batroc's comic-book costume, Markovsky and her team researched real-life pirates. "They wear casual sweaters and track suits. I thought it would be a great way to incorporate the reality of a track suit with the burgundy and gold lines of the comic costume, then add all the combat gear to keep it functional and based in reality."