

RIVA: "We designed the bedroom (left, below) so the windows would go translucent or opaque on their own. It was very complicated to figure out the logistics on that, with long discussions between the director of photography and visual-effects guys. Eventually, it rested with visual effects."

