

Having difficulty establishing the right point of view for this sequence, storyboard artists turned to Meinerding's keyframe art (above) for inspiration. MEINERDING: "This image helped them understand that you could show this sequence from the terrorist POV and have them be scared of the Mark I."