

This is the final version of Mark I on the set with a stunt actor inside. The Mark I armor is the culmination of Tony Stark's dogged refusal to give up under the duress of captivity and with his heart tied to a car battery. MEINERDING: "The design idea was to go for simplicity. It was all based on the reality of having to build it in the Cave, using the Stark technology being stockpiled by the terrorists. Bits and pieces of his weapons were to be visible in the design."