

Tony shows classified video of what the Iron Man 2 filmmakers called "The Feebles"—the would-be Iron Man suits built by foreign countries like Iran, North Korea, Russia, and Venezuela. All the attempts at recreating Tony's suit are spectacular failures.

Latcham: "Early on, we had designs for Feebles from all over the world, and it was a really fun part of the design process. Of course, in the finished film, the Feebles are on screen for about four seconds."