

Meinerding: "We started doing a few early versions of Drones that people were sort of on board, but they weren't sure whether it was going to be a robot or whether it was going to actually look like there should be a guy inside. When the story point came in that it was going to be the Hammer version of Iron Man's suit that Ivan then retrofits to be a Drone, we ended up landing on something that looked a little bit more reasonable."

