

Mahan: "This time around, the stipulation from the director and from Robert [Downey Jr.] is to make the suits quick to get on and off, and light. You know, take what we've learned, modify it, make it better. We work hand-in-hand with [Production Designer] Michael Riva and Ryan Meinerding and the other designers. It's really like Jon [Favreau] works for months with his camp on looks, then we kind of work with them on fusing them together. There's a shorthand now, because we all know each other."
