

Riva: "Opportunities now are incredible. You can do anything; there is no limit to the imagination now. The question still remains; does it need to do that? How will that help the story? Motivation is everything. If somebody's doing an incredibly elaborate shot, there better be a really good reason for it. There are moments you want to be special, and you want to be cool, and you want to be fun, and you can get away with murder."

