

Meinerding: "The RT and the faceplate and the helmet are probably the easiest [elements that distinguish Iron Man]. The other things which I've found are very important, are to make it look like he has shoulder pads on—even if they're slim—make sure it looks like he has gloves on, and make sure it looks like he has boots on. For some reason, to bump those out in the silhouette just a little bit more makes it a lot closer to Iron Man."
