

Feige: "I think fans are going to love the way the suitcase suit deploys. That's right out of the comics. In the '60s he would open up—it looked like a regular suitcase—he'd open it up, put on a glove, put on a boot, the gold would magically come over him and he was in the Iron Man suit.

"The suitcase suit doesn't have full weaponry, and he's kind of taking it for a test ride in battle for the first time, which we haven't seen him do before. That's going to add to the tension and to the humor that's going to come out of this sequence when he first faces off against Whiplash."

Double Negative