

The Mark V armor was the only suit of Iron Man armor to be completely computer generated, with no practical counterpart.

Meinerding: "The fact that it doesn't actually have to fit around somebody makes it a little bit simpler because you're not hamstrung by anything that is actually a practical concern. There are so many cheats you can get away with in the CG world that it makes it a little bit easier."

Legacy Effects