

Granov: "Most of the direction came from conversations I've had with Jon Favreau and the Production Designer Michael Riva, as well as comparing a lot of notes with Ryan Meinerding. For nearly all of the keyframes, Jon would either have an idea for a scene he'd like, or would simply let Ryan come up with something cool. The amount of freedom he was allowed on both films was fantastic and very surprising."

