

Zophres: "We had three or four different ways to go with Nick, but when they finally figured out where he was going to be in the movie, Jon [Favreau] said he should be in the leather jacket. Because we had a suit, just very straightforward, like an Armani suit. We had a black, shorter coat, like a suit coat without leather with a straightforward black trouser, black turtleneck and then we had the other leather coat."

Costumes designed by Mary Zophres.