

“The War Machine and Iron Patriot are essentially the same design of armor with different paint jobs,” says Lindsay MacGowan, Effects Supervisor at Legacy Effects. “When we got into the physical build of the suits, we invited Ryan and Phil to the studio to go over the different paint tests that we did to find a color that matched the designs as closely as possible.” After film tests are done, “a choice is made by the team as to which shade of red or blue is to be used for each particular area of each suit.”

Ryan Meinerding concept art.