Paley, on no organ formed to give pain
Pallas, on the fertility of the domesticated descendants of wild stocks
Palm with hooks
Papaver bracteatum
Paraguay, cattle destroyed by flies
Parasites
Partridge, with ball of earth attached to foot
Parts greatly developed, variable
Parus major
Passiflora
Peaches in United States
Pear, grafts of Pedicellariæ
Pelagornium, flowers of ———, sterility of
Pelvis of women
Peloria
Period, glacial
Petrels, habits of
Phasianus, fertility of hybrids
Pheasant, young, wild
Pictet, Prof., on groups of species suddenly appearing ———, on rate of organic change
———, on continuous succession of genera
———, on change in latest tertiary forms
———, on close alliance of fossils in consecutive formations
———, on early transitional links
Pierce, Mr., on varieties of wolves
Pigeons with feathered feet and skin between toes
———, breeds described, and origin of ———, breeds of, how produced
———, tumbler, not being able to get out of egg
———, reverting to blue colour
———, instinct of tumbling
———, young of
Pigs, black, not affected by the paint-root
———, modified by want of exercise
Pistil, rudimentary