fn46 This is an interferometer: it uses the interference between the lasers which run along the two arms to reveal the minute variations in length of these arms.