because their wavelengths were 16 percent larger than normal. This is called the Doppler shift; it was caused by the quasar's moving away from Earth at 16 percent the speed of light, about $c/6$. What could cause that ultrafast motion? The least crazy explanation Schmidt could find was the expansion of the universe.