29 Most of the lensing occurs in the region where the wormhole's shape in the bulk is strongly curved. This is the region where its outward slope is steeper than 45 degrees, so I define the lensing width to be the radial distance, in the bulk, from the wormhole throat to the location with 45-degree outward slope (Figure 15.1).